Memorial Opportunities

Memorial & Honorary Opportunities

Memorial bricks and pavers line the walkways of the Greatrex Place administrative offices and Elizabeth House, the inpatient hospice facility on our main campus in Flat Rock, North Carolina. Families, patients, friends, volunteers, and staff walk these paths every day and are reminded of the life stories of so many loved people.

When you memorialize or honor your loved one with one of these beautiful tributes, you are also helping Four Seasons continue their mission to provide a range of care services to patients and families, regardless of their ability to pay.

Leaving a Legacy

Henry, Fair's husband, carried out her wishes to be cremated and scattered among her flowers, all the while knowing that there would be no physical memorial to honor her — no headstone or cemetery plot to visit. He remembers with gratitude the compassionate care provided by the Four Seasons team during Fair's illness. His love for his wife and this gratitude toward Four Seasons led him to purchase a brick and a paver in her memory for display on the Four Seasons campus.

"I might not have survived the stress of being her caregiver without the hospice care, nurses, music therapists, CNAs, and other support provided by Four Seasons." - Henry Johnson

These memorials, reminders of a life well-lived, are gifts that help provide others with the same compassionate end of life care that Fair received and serve as comfort to all who pass by.
